FRANCE TO BE CONSULTED ON NAVY TREATY?

TARDIEU ABLE TO UNDERSTAND PROBLEM

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright 1929, by the Escanaba Press)

Washington, Nov. 11—Selection of Andre Tardieu to be premier of France means as much to the success of American-British policy in the forthcoming armament conference as the Hoover-MacDonald visit. In fact, in the effort to broaden the scope of American policy so it shall not be understood merely as an Anglo-American entente, an invitation to the new premier of France to visit the United States probably would be a gesture of unmistakable significance, even if the French premier were unable to accept.

The new leader of the French government is well known to officials of the Washington government and particularly to President Hoover, with whom he dealt during war times when M. Tardieu was French high commissioner to the United States and Mr. Hoover was the food administrator. When the peace conference was in session Mr. Hoover and M. Tardieu saw a good deal of each other. In fact Monsieur Tardieu has become more familiar with American policy and traditions and customs than any other Frenchman, with the possible exception of Jules Jusserand, who for so many years was ambassador to the United States.

Intimate Knowledge.

Nobody in the French cabinet circle, therefore, has the intimate knowledge of American affairs that M. Tardieu can bring to bear on international problems. For many years M. Tardieu contributed a weekly article to American newspapers and his book reveals an understanding of the Anglo-Saxon psychology which explains many of the reasons why there have been controversies between the latter and the Latin world. He has a knowledge of American business organization and made friends with the leaders of American industry during the war. If French internal policies does not upset him before he can get started, France under his leadership should go forward to an unprecedentel prosperity.

The gratifying thing from the viewpoint of official Washington as that Aristide Briend, former premier, is to remain as minister of foreign affairs, insuring a continuity that will mean much to the London conference and to the successful operation of the Young plan.

Based on Moral Force.

Busmen on Strike; Folks Walk in Rain

London, Nov. 11 (AP)—With a gale of rain and wind blowing and the city full of Armistice Day crowds, more than 2,000 bus operatives on fifteen routes went on strike today. A conference of union leaders and directors of the London General Omnibus company broke up in disagreement after several hours' discussion this afternoon.

It is now believed that there is danger the strike may cripple the entire service which numbers 4,000 buses operating from fifty garages over the city.

Tram services and underground trains were not affected.

The sharp curtailment of bus service caused much inconvenience to workers returning to their homes this evening, many being forced to walk. To add to their troubles the weather was bad.

Day in Washington

The senate voted to increase the tungsen tariff.

President Hoover led the American people in observance of Armistice Day.

The lobby investigating committee sharply criticized William Burgess, a former member of the tariff cimmission.

The District of Columbia grand jury heard E. E. Loomis, on "the Wall Street booze party" for senators described by Senator Brookhart.

Smith Petitions For a Recount In Detroit Election

Detroit, Nov. 11 (AP)—The city election commission today took steps for a recount of the ballots cast in the municipal election last Tuesday following the filing of a petition by John W. Smith, defeated mayoralty candidate.

Smith was defeated in the mayoralty race by Charles Bowles, by a margin of 8,401 votes, according to the offical canvas. In his petition for a recount, Smith claimed there had been errors and irregularities both in the balloting and in the canvas and that had these not occurred he would have been elected.

The recount will start at 9 A. M. Wednesday.

LOBBY LEADER IS CONDEMNED

"Perjury" and "Slander" Are Charged to William Burgess

Washington, Nov. 11 (AP)—Submitting its second report to the senate, the senate lobby committee today condemned William Burgess, former member of the tariff commission, or his activities during consideration of the pending tariff legislation.

After the report was read, Chairman Caraway of the committee told the senate that Burgess, now employed by the United States Pottery association, was a "paid lobbyist" who "had no regard whatever for his own reputation, no hesitancy in committing perjury," and "was perfectly slander members of the senate."

The report, which consisted principally of a review of Burgess' testimony before the lobby committee, asserted his actions in attempting to have Frederick L. Koch of the tariff commission disciplined amounted "approximately to contempt of the senate, if they do not constitute such."

Caraway announced later that no further action against Burgess was contemplated by the committee and no recommendations were made in the report.

PEACE DAY IS OBSERVED IN EVERY STATE

CAPITOL PROGRAM IS CARRIED BY RADIO HOOKUP

Washington, Nov. 11 (AP)—The American people, led by President Hoover, today commemorated the eleventh anniversary of the signing of the Armistice which ended the greatest military conflict of history.

As in every city, town and hamlet throughout the nation, simple and dignified ceremonies honoring the memory of the hero dead of the war, were held in Washington. To the undecorated white marble slab which covers the body of the Unknown American soldier in the Arlington cemetery there went during the day a pligrimage of government officials, including the chief executive, and World war veterans to lay wreaths of tribute.

The climactic touch was provided tonight in exercises of the American Legion, which President Hoover chose for the enunciation to the world of his Armistice day message. The audience of federal officials, diplomats and World war veterans was estimated to be 18,000 and arrangements made it possible for the chief executive's address to be heard by radio throughout the country.

Honor War-Time Chief

Twelve thousand Legion posts had been instructed to gather and listen-in, one of the speakers being their national commander, O. L. Bodenhamer.

They likewise heard a message from their war time chief, General John J. Pershing, who cabled to Bodenhamer from Paris a greeting to his comrades of the World war.

Believe Mooney Was German Spy

Bellaire, Ohio, Nov. 11 (AP)—A. L. Smith, 59, millwright of Wheeling, W. Va., today corroborated the statements of three other persons that his brother, Louis Smith, made a confession before he died in 1922 that he was responsible for the bombing of the preparedness day parade at San Francisco in 1916.

Smith said he is confident that his brother and not Tom Mooney, labor organizer, threw the bomb which caused the deaths of ten persons. Mooney was convicted of the crime and is now serving a prison term in California.

Flint, Mich., Nov. 11 (AP)—The Union Industrial Bank today issued a statement setting the gross amount of money and securities stolen from the institution by a group of ten or more employes and junior executives as more than $3,500,000, the largest bank defiation in the nation's history.

The gross shortage is set at $3,592,000 but the net loss is estimated in the neighborhood of $2,000,000 which in turn is expected to be cut down by payments on certain insurance policies held by the bank.

Officials of the Flint bank and of Detroit banking houses with which it is affiliated conferred with Rudolph E. Reichert, state banking commissioner; Prosecuting Attorney Charles D. Beagle, of Genesee county, and a representative of the attorney general's office. It was announced that "all were satisfied that everything possible was being done to expedite matters so that prosecution may be instituted at the earliest moment."

Depositors Safe

Mr. Mott resumed the active presidency of the bank soon after the shortages were revealed.

State banking officials and local authorities as well as officers of the bank have expressed themselves as satisfied that the interests of the public have been thoroughly safeguarded.

President and Pershing Voice U. S. Armistice Day Sentiments

Washington, Nov. 11 (AP)—The text of General John P. Pershing's cablegram from Paris read at the American Legion Armistice Day gathering tonight by Commander O. L. Bodenhamer follows:

"I take pleasure in sending my warmest greetings and good wishes to my comrades of the World war. This anniversary is filled with rich memories and their services and their sacrifices. Loyally representing a patriotic people, inspired the devotion and provided the means, our armies met the crisis of the war and gave the preponderous and the impulse necessary to victory.

J. J. Pershing

"But on this day or rejoicing, we cannot fail to count the war's tremendous cost in human life and every heart is filled with fondest hope that war may never come again.

"On this side of the Atlantic the prayer goes up today that good understanding among nations may make premanent the peace so dearly won. Like ourselves the sincerest wish of all peoples is for lasting peace with security. May God hasten the day when it can be proclaimed."

HIGHER TARIFF ON TUNGSTEN

Wood Schedule Follows Metals on Senate's Program

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Washington, Nov. 11 (AP)—The senate voted to give higher tariff protection to another mineral entering into the manufacture of steel, approving retention of the house duty of 50 cents a pound on tungsten as against 45 cents in the present law.

The finance committee Republicans had proposed elimination of the five-cent increase, but by a vote of 31 to 31, the first tie since the tariff bill was taken up, this was rejected and the house rate restored.

The levy on upholsters nails was raised from 1½ cents a pound to 3 cents as provided by the house. The committee rate of 40 per cent, which was an increase, was rejected.

A committee amendment to raise the duty on staples for use in paper fasteners to 40 cents a pound from one-sixth of a cent was rejected and a 10-cent tariff approved.

All textile machinery not specifically mentioned in the metal schedule was given a rate of 35 per cent as against 40 per cent in existing law and the house bill.

The senate is expected to complete action on committee amendments to the metals schedules tomorrow and to proceed with consideration of the wood schedule.

Washington, Nov. 11 (AP)—Here are some pithy sentences fgrom President Hoover's address, delivered today, on the eleventh anniversary of the signing of the Armistice:

—o—

No man came from that (World war) furnace a swashbuckling militarist.

—o—

Those who say its realities and its backwash in the sacrifice of women and children are not the men who glorify war.

Herbert Hoover

—o—

Peace is not a static thing.

—o—

To maintain peace is as dynamic in its requiremtns as is the conduct of war.

—o—

We must frankly accept the fact that we and all the nations of the world will be involved for all future time in small or great controversies and frictions.

—o—

Our ideals and our hopes are for the progress of justice through the entire world.

—o—

We ae confident that at least in the Western Hemisphere public opinion will suffice to check violence.

—o—

I have full confidence in the success of the conference (naval limitation) which will assemble next January.

—o—

We must reduce and limit warships by agreement only. I have no faith in the reduction of armaments by example alone.

—o—

I am for adequate preparedness as a guaranty that no foreign soldier shall ever step upon the soil of our country.

—o—

No American will arise today and say that we wish one gun or one armed man beyond that necessary for the defense of our people.

—o—

Proper defense requires military strength relative to that of other nations. We will reduce our naval strength in proportion to any other.

—o—

Our nation has said with millions of voices that we desire only defense.

—o—

No idea can be perfected except upon the anvil of debate.

—o—

The time has come when we shall remove starvation of women and children from weapons of warfare.

—o—

I have no fear that we are not able to impress every country the single-minded good will which lies in the American heart.

Jury Drank Up Evidence; Who Is Guilty Now?

Columbia, S. C., Nov. 11 (AP)—The South Carolina supreme court has the problem of deciding whether a jury which drank up the evidence against a man charged with violation of the prohibition law could rightfully return a verdict of guilty of possession of intoxicating liquors against him.

Evidence presented before the highest court of the state today was that a jury in a lower court convicted George Buckhalter of possessing intoxicating liquors after it had spent three hours in deliberation and consumed 47 bottles of home brew which was allegedly his.

Attorneys for Buckhalter argued today that consumption of the fluid served to make the jurors witnesses and deprived them of the title of jurors.

WOULD AMEND JUDICIAL CODE

Investigates Plan to Combine Upper Peninsula's Districts

Washington, Nov. 11 (AP)—Senator Arthur H. Vandenburg today introduced a bill to amend the judicial code so as to change the time of federal court terms in the western Michigan judicial district.

Senator Vandenberg's bill seeks to change the terms at Grand Rapids from June, October and December to March, May, September and November; at Marquette, from April and September to April and October, and at Sault Ste. Marie, from January and July to January and June. The bill was drawn up on the suggestion of District Judge Fred M. Raymond, of Grand Rapids and it has the approval of District Judge Clarence W. Sessions and Circuit Judge Arthur C. Denison. No change is sought in the terms in the eastern judicial district.

The present terms are unsuitable because of the difficulty of obtaining jurors at these times and the scarcity of hotel accommodations due to the heavy tourist traffic, Senator Vandenberg said. The bill was referred to the senate judiciary committee.

Senator Vandenberg said he was making an investigation into the possible re-districting of Michigan so as to combine the upper peninsula into an independent judicial district.

ANKLE BROKEN, FLAGS TRAINS FROM 2 WAYS

Three of the dead were trainmen. Numbered among them was the engineer, W. A. Eisman, of Chattanooga, who had taken over the throttle today temporarily, in the place of W. A. Williams, of Chattanooga, the regular engineer. Eisman was buried beneath the wrecked engine.

Returning Excursion

Nearly all of the injured passengers were from Ohio and Michigan. The wreck took place at 1:20 o'clock this morning on a curve 28 miles north of here and 25 miles south of the Kentucky state line. The engine, combination baggage and express car four day coaches and three Pullmans left the rails. The cause was undetermined.

"I was partly asleep after leaving Oakdale" he said here tonight after he was brought from the scene of the wreck with

STOCKS SLIDE TO LOW LEVEL

Blame Bear Drive; Many Weakened Margins Are Cleared

BY STANLEY W. PRENOSIL
(Associated Press Financial Writer.)

New York, Nov. 11 (AP)—A sudden outburst of selling, descending with terrific impact in the last hour of trading, sent prices crashing downward on the New York stock exchange today. Net declines in the active issues ranged from $2 to $22 a share, with a sprinkling of ordinarily inactive issues down $25 to $50 a share.

Seventy stocks, including American Can, General Electric, and New York Central, fell to new low levels for the year, while dozens of others, including U. S. Steel, common, sank to the lowest levels since the current "bear" market started on October 24.

Break Comes Late

Prices started to drift downward from the opening gong but for the first two hours the decline was orderly and business was relatively light in volume. Many brokers attributed the late break to a concerted "bear drive," but there had been steady liquidation throughout the day of weakened marginal accounts. Some investment selling also was apparent as a result of the uneasiness created by the many alarmist rumors in circulation and the suicide of James J. Riordan, prominent New York banker, who is unofficially reported to have sustained large losses in the market.

Total sales on the New York stock exchange for the three hour session were 3,367,150 shares, more than half of which changed hands in the last hour, which compares with 3,214,600 shares on Friday.

The New York banking group, headed by J. P. Morgan & Co., organized a few weeks ago to assure an orderly market, held no meetings today. Spokesmen for the group also made no comment on the day's proceedings.

Firm Goes Under

The third New York brokerage failure took place today when the Produce Exchange Securities firm of Montford and Malone was posted for inability to meet its obligations. Like the two New York curb exchange houses, which failed previously, the Montford firm was relatively small, and not engaged in any extensive commission business.

The curb market broke less precipitantly than the stock exchange as the drop on the "big board" came so late in the session that the curb did not have much time to react in sympathy. Such shares as Electric Band and Share, Middle West Utilities (old stock) and American Gas and Electric, however, dropped about $12 each, and Aluminum Co. of America dropped $30 in a few sales. Trading quited down in Cities Service, 35,100 shares changing hands, in contrast to around 1,000,000 shares dureing some of the most feverish sessions recently. It sold down $2 to $28, then rallied to $29.50.

Stocks on the cover the counter market declined substantially. Interest centered on stock of the County Trust Co., which was headed by James J. Riordan, whose suicide announced after the bank closed Saturday. The stock has been offered at $430 a share Friday, with no takers. It opened today at $375 asked $300 bid, and was later quoted $310 asked $275 bid.

forging of another link in our chain of friendship," he said. "This is our Thanksgiving Day as well as Armistice Day. How could an occasion be more fitting.

"We have every reason to point with pride to the accomplishments of our two countries. This bridge truly will be an ambassador of good will."

"Upon this day of Canada's Thanksgiving, upon this Armistice day, with reverence for our land, may I express to the United States this wish that the sun may ever set upon this bridge with the bonds of friendship and love between the two countries as strong as they are today."

Most 20 Million

A huge throng gathered at the Detroit terminus of the span, to hear the addresses of good will. A similar scene was enacted at the Canadian approach to the bridge. Later Governor Green and Mr. McRae exchanged places, the former addressing the crowd at the Canadian side while the Ontario cabinet member expressed the greetings of the dominion to the throng at the Detroit end.

Although the dedication exercises were held today, the bridge will not be opened to traffic until Friday of this week, the delay being due to the necessity of assembling a staff of immigration and customs inspectors at both sides of the span.

Work on the bridge, nearly two miles long from one approach to the other, was begun in 1927. Costing $20,000,000 its free span is 1,850 feet long, 100 feet longer than the Delaware river bridge between Philadelphia and Camden. It has a 47-foot roadway that will accommodate five lanes of vehicles, and an eight-foot sidewalk. At the Detroit end there is a six-acre asphalt terminal for waiting cars. The Canadian terminal which is at Sandwich south of Windsor, comprises seven and one-half acres.

The dedication ceremonies were broadcast over a network of Canadian stations linked in the Canadian National Railways system and through WWJ, Detroit.

PEACE DAY IS OBSERVED IN EVERY STATE

utes Washington stilled its activities as a tribute to the dead of the war. The senate stood silently during the period, which was ended by the soft tones of "taps," blown by an army bugler at the Unknown Soldier's tomb."

In another ceremony, the memory of the wartime president, Woodrow Wilson, was honored at the national cathedral in the Bethlehem chapel where his body is entombed. Bishop James E. Freeman of Washington delivered a sermon in tribute to Wilson's career. Earlier in the day the bishop had conducted at the cathedral a service of thanksgiving for the peace of the world.

At Foch's Tomb

Paris, Nov. 11 (AP)— Before visiting former Premier Clemenceau, General John J. Pershing today paid tribute to Marshal Foch on the eleventh anniversary of the Armistice that all three helped to bring about.

The commander of the American troops during the great war was the first person permitted to descend into the temporary crypt in the invalides where the marshal's body lies. He stood silent for several minutes before the tomb, and then he went to call on Foch's widow. There he met Foch's grandchildren, whom he had already met at the marshal's country home in Brittany, and held in his arms Foch's favorite grandchild.

General Pershing is sailing for home tomorrow aboard the liner Leviathan.

Vets Visit Tiger

Paris, Nov. 11 (AP)—The Tiger of France was host today, eleventh anniversary of the Armistice, to a small group of war veterans from his native province of Vendee. They formed the only delegation representative of French present-day life that came to congratulate the great French statesman on the anniversary of the Armistice that he did so much to bring about.

"You prepared the future of peace, justice and liberty," said the spokesman of the delegation.

M. Clemenceau was deeply moved and insisted on standing to receive them despite his 88 years. He showed no traces of his recent illness.

"I thank you for the kind words with which you honor me," he said. "I am worthy of them by my intention. As for my acts, I do not know what the future has in store for us.

"I am deeply moved, and I thank you with all my heart and thought. I will make an appointment with you for next year."

Then the Tiger hesitated, seemingly sad and troubled. He added "only I may not be here."

General John J. Pershing visited the war-time premier in the afternoon as a courtesy on Armistice day. The commander of the A. E. F. found him alert and reminiscent and they talked about the war and about Franco-American relations briefly.

LAUD KELLOGG PACT

London, Nov. 11 (AP)—Arthur Henderson, foreign secretary, tonight told an Armistice anniversary audience that the Kellogg anti-war pact might be made as real as the law against assault and murder was in England.

"I believe and I want to emphasize that the pact offers us a chance to get finally rid of war. I believe if we organize peace on constructive lines we can make the pact as real to the nations of the world as the law against assault and murder is real to the peaceful citizens of this country," he declared.

New York, Nov. 11 (AP)—Semyon A. Shestakov, chief pilot of the Russian plane, "Land of the Soviets," which flew from Moscow to New York, today announced that the Osoaviakhim, Soviet aviation society, had refused to indorse his proposal to fly across the Atlantic ocean on the homeward trip.

He made public a telegram from J. S. Unschlicht, vice chairman of the Sooaviakhim, which said:

"The presidium of the Osoavikhim, while greeting your readiness to fly across the Atlantic, cannot accept your proposal in view of the particularly difficult meteorological conditions prevailing at the present time of the year."

November 13-14 Are Big Nights For Astronomers

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(Science Editor)
(Associated Press Feature Service)

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 11 (AP)—All over the world this week on the nights of November 13 and 14 astronomers will be watching for the most important meteors in more than thirty years, the long missing leonids.

No spectacular display is expected this year, only a few leonids, but if there are enough of them it will mean that in about three years the earth is due for another of the most brilliant meteor showers, veritable rains of fire. The leonids have shown up quite regularly three times a century for more than a thousand years, but failed to appear when last due at the first of the present century.

Jupiter Queers Layout

Astronomers suspect that failure was due to the huge planet Jupiter being too close to their orbit and pulling them off schedule. The question is whether this vast stream of meteors, which takes 33 years to make one trip around the sun, is again back on its course. If the answer is yes, on November 14 and 15 the earth should be in the beginnings of the stream, which is so rich that it takes several years to pass a fixed point. If the old schedule is restored, the earth center of the stream should come along about three years hence.

A very few leonids appeared last November. If more are sighted this week, predictions may be made about the coming great show. After midnight is the best time to look for them.

The entire civilized world is requested in a notice from Harvard observatory to assist in searching for hitherto unknown written records of past leonid showers. Dr. William J. Fisher, Harvard's "meteor fisherman," believes that in ships' logs, church, missionary government and other records there exist references to the leonids.

Already he has received answers to the Harvard notice, one telling of a chronicle in Syria, made in Damascus in the twelfth century, containing astronomical observations as far back as the sixth century. Information has been received also that there are sources in China, and possibly in Japan, Korea and Russia. Chinese writings are considered especially important.

Bloodshed Follows Mexican Politics

Mexico City, Nov. 11 (AP)—Following close on the serious riot here in which thirteen persons were wounded yesterday, newspaper dispatches tonight told of other political clashes resulting in bloodshed in several widely scattered cities.

At Vera Cruez three followers of Paschal Oritz Rubio, presidential candidate of the revolutionary party, were reported wounded in a gun fight with partisans of Jose Vasconcelos, candidate of the anti-re-electionists.

Special dispatches from Merida said that five persons were wounded there in a political clash and a dispatch to El Universal from Leon in the state of Guanajato reported four more wounded in a fight between rival factions today.

All troops of the federal district were ordered to barracks this afternoon to remain mobilized until after the national elections on Sunday.

Judge, Civic Head, Held as Stabber Of Stenographer

Austin, Texas, Nov. 11 (AP)—Shaking convulsively at intervals in the Travis county jail, John W. Brady, one time judge of the third court of civic appeals, and a leader in the civic, reluigious and official affairs of Texas, awaited tonight the processes of the law he so often expounded. Against him is a charge that he fatally stabbed Miss Lehlia Highsmith, stenographer for the supreme court commission of appeals late Saturday night.

Miss Highsmith died early Sunday morning, an hour after she had been stabbed. Her attacker accosted her in front of her apartment shortly after she had alighted from an automobile in which she had been riding with an Austin salesman.

The young woman had known Brady for several years and the couple often had been seen together, authorities declare.

STORMS SWEEP ENGLAND

London, Nov. 12 (Tuesday) (AP)—There were several scattered deaths, numerous injuries, and widespread destruction today from a furious southwest gale which tore over Great Britain and the surrounding seas last night and early today. The wind varied in speed from 50 to 70 miles per hour with occasional guests of near 90 miles velocity.

AMBASSADOR DECORATED

New York, Nov. 11 (AP)—William S. Culberson, American ambassador to Chile, arrived today on the Grace Liner Santa Maria with decorations from both the Chilean and Peruvian governments for his work in the settlement of the Tacna-Arica boundary dispute.

Vienna, Nov. 11 (AP)—The arrest of a midwife named Rosie Novy today disclosed the fact that thirty-six children admitted to her baby farm had disappeared. The police think the woman either murdered them or sold them to childless couples. Investigation is difficult because in many cases regulation certificates were missing.

SHORT QUIZ ON BOOZE DINNER

Railroad Man Completes His Story in Three Minutes

Washington, Nov. 11 (AP)—In three minutes the grand jury reviewing the "Wall Street booze party" of 1926 heard today all that E. E. Loomis, president of the Lehigh Valley roalroad, had to say about that occasion since made famous by Senator Brookhart of Iowa.

Mentioned in the senate as having taken "some alcoholic stuff" at the dinner, Loomis described his appearance before the grand jury as "short but sweet." He declined to discuss his testimony, saying:

All Private

"It was a private dinner and I have some idea of the proprieties. You will have to rely on the laboratory experience and smelling propensities of Senator Brookhart. You don't expect me to discuss for the public anything that happens at a private dinner where I was a guest, do you?"

Frank S. Hight, manager of the Willard Hotel where the alleged "booze party" was held, also testified briefly before the grand jury. Brookhart had appeared previously.

The hotel man brought with him records apparently requested by the jury concerning the dinner, which was given to some Republican senators by Walter J. Fahy, a New York broker. These fixed the date as December 10, 1926. The jury also questioned Walter Liggett, magazine writer, whose article in the current issue of Plain Talk contained numerous charges of liquor law violations here.

Rothstein Murder, Issue in Election; Trial Opens Today

New York, Nov. 11 (AP)—The Rothstein case, which cost a police commissioner his job, flamed intermittently in the headlines for months and then leaped again into prominence during the recent mayoralty campaign, will develop into a trial tomorrow when George A. McManus, racetrack bookmaker and gambler associate of Rothstein, will enter a court room to be tried for the killing of his onet-ime friend.

On November 4, 1928, Rothstein stagged out of the Park Central hotel with a bullet in his abdomen. He died two days later, refusing to the last to name his assailant.

Shortly afterward McManus surrendered and was indicted with Hyman Biller and two unidentified men for the killing. Biller, who was questioned by police a few hours after the shooting and then released, is still at large.

After being criticized for his department's handling of the case, Police Commissioner Joseph A. Warren, resigned. Charges that the police were loath to solve the case because it might lead to disclosures unfavorable to Tammany Hall politicians were made again and again, and were reiterated during the recent mayoralty campaign, when political foes of Tammany stressed the case as an issue. The critics alleged Rothstein had dealings with men active in the political life of the city.

Death Ends Career Of Archaeologist

Santa Fe, N. M., Nov. 11 (AP)—Wesley Bradfield, 53, eminent archaeologist, died at his home here last night of pneumonia.

Bradfield was on the staff of the School of American Research. In 1926 and 1927 he was associate director of the San Diego, California, Museum. He was a native of Michigan and is survived by two brothers, Rev. E. H. Bradfield, Lawrence, Mich., and Clark Bradfield, of Los Angeles.

Ironwood City Team Defeats Rangers At Fairgrounds, 6 to 0

The Ironwood City team handed the Escanaba Rangers another 6 to 0 defeat at the fair grounds Sunday afternoon. A large crowd witnessed the game considering the dismal weather.

Both teams battled scoreless the first half, Zambrovitz' toes protecting Ironwod'os goal line DeMar's returning of punts enabling the Rangers to keep their goal line unmolested.

The first break came in the middle of the third quarter. DeMar's punt was blocked on his own 40 yard line and recovered by Ironwood. Two passes advanced the oval to the etn yard line. After three fruitless attempts at the Escanaba forward wall, a short pass was completed and the ball was carried over the Escanaba line. The try for point was unsuccessful. In the last period, the Rangers opened up with passes flung in every direction, hoping to nail one past the secondary defense but most of them were knocked down. Snyder at end, however, proved a threat at all times. He reached up several times to spear aerial heaves that seemed destined to fall to earth incomplete.

FRANCE TO BE CONSULTED ON NAVY TREATY?

ence concerns very largely the naval powers of the world, it embraces much more than a possible agreement on naval policy. It is the first sequel to the signing and ratification of the Kellogg-Briand treaties and as such challenges the diplomacy of the whole world. For if the big powers can make effective the principle of renunciation of war by a reduction or limitation of armament, the other nations will feel the compelling influence or moral force.

It is through moral force that President Hoover and Secretary Stimson are striving to get a world understanding. The entry into the picture of Andre Tardieu, a man who so thoroughly understands the American viewpoint, makes possible a closer relationship among France, Great Britain and the United States and augurs well for a continuance of the effort toward permanent peace.

other injured.

"The first thing I knew I was suddenly aroused. Nearly everyone in the car was asleep. As I started to raise up there was a crash, a blinding flash and the car left the track. It plunged headlong down a 20 foot embankment.

"It was awful. There were groans and screams and prayers. I lit a match and then another, with the help of another passenger I broke the glass in one of the under windows. I was the first to crawl through and the first thing I stepped in was boiling water. My feet were nearly scalded. Then we piled up cushions to walk on.

"About this time some one screamed 'There's another train coming. Grabbing a flashlight—I'll never know how I got it—I rushed south and flagged the train. Looking forward, I saw another train approaching.

"Knowing that the engineer of the southbound train would come on, I rushed down that way waving my flashlight up and down.

"It seemed like that train never would stop. I knew I must stop it because there was a coach square across the tracks back at the wreck.

"After it stopped I went back to the wreck and helped passengers out of our coach. No. I didn't realize that my foot was badly hurt. I was conscious only of a dull pain. I had to give up soon and was helped to a coach on the other train."

Mr. Sherman's wife and son Ellis, 18, were injured. His younger son, Charles, 7, escaped unhurt. The father said that in some manner the youngster reached the top of the embankment.

Glowing Tribute Paid Legion by Fr. Pathe In Stirring Address

Paying high tribute to the American Legion for its efforts to perpetuate the memory of those who died in the defense of our country's cause and to foster all that pertains to righteous government, Rev. Fr. Michael J. Pathe, Redemptorist missionary of Detroit, delivered a stirring address at the banquet for war veterans held at the Delta hotel last evening.

America is in danger, not from a foreign foe, but from the activities of various agencies which seek to breed intolerance and bigotry, lining up one class of people against another, Father Pathe declared. He also decried the wave of extreme pacifism sweeping the country, declaring that preparedness is the best defense.

Large Crowd Attends

About one hundred and seventy-five persons attended the function. James E. Frost presided as toastmaster. Greenfield's concert orchestra furnished a delightful program of war songs, which were sung enthusiastically by the assembly. Vocal solos by Mrs. Matt Gunter and C. Arthur Anderson, accompanied by Mrs. Fernstrom at the piano, were well received.

American Legion emblems were awarded to Abe Houle and Philip Bruce in appreciation of their service in the present membership drive. Houle secured the largest number of members, a total of 52. John Reubens, the last remaining member of C. F. Smith post of the G. A. R., was present at the banquet and was introduced by the toastmaster.

Fulfils Patriotic Duty

"As a nation given over to material prosperity, we are too much inclined to minimize or altogether forget the things of the spirit," Father Pathe said. "We become so wrapped up in our own temporal prosperity that we are strongly tempted to ignore the sacrifices, the tears, the blood and the prayers that made this prosperity an assured reality for us. We revel so much in the thought of our power that we fail to pay justice to the memory of the heroes by whose struggles and in whose death this power was wrought.

"The Legion is only fulfilling a patriotic duty in ever freshening in our poor memories the records of our country's glory. Your other purpose to keep watch and ward over the life and wealth of our country. This is the responsibility of every citizen. But your good example is a spur to us.

Religion and Politics

"In our most patriotic moments we cannot close our eyes to the sad fact that agencies are ever active in our midst which must work the destruction of our constitutional liberties. There are social evils arising out of an ever-growing Godlessness and these, if unchecked, will spell the ruin of law and order.

"Of matters purely political, I do not intend to speak. I am neither well versed in the intricacies of political situations, nor am I, by my profession, privileged to use my power or influence in promoting partisanship. Religion should be a help to politics. Patriotism is a religious obligation. But when any man or body of men, whose profession is the teaching of religion, use the church pulpit for the purpose of disseminating mere political doctrine, then religion has descended to demagogy. Or when political campaigns, whether of city, state or nation, are influenced by bigotry and intolerance, and these vicious influences are encouraged and inspired by religion, then indeed has the spiritual power become the slave of the temporal. More disastrous far to the commonwealth than the guns and swords of an enemy at war are the diabolical agencies of hate within the land. Flagrant violators of the Constitution, they prostitute the sacred privilege of the ballet.

Duty of Religion

"The rightful duty of religion is to safeguard the morals of the people. People officials who are immoral are a menace to society. A people without good morals is incapable of self-government. Say to all who devote themselves to the preaching of the Gospel—'Go into the hearts of your people and inspire them to the practice virtue; teach them the love of God from which true love of country springs; teach them honesty that the public trust may be secure; teach them truthfulness that no longer our campaigns be conducted on shameful lies; teach them charity that characters may be respected; go into the homes of your people and teach them that fidelity to the law of God which will inspire them to be obedient to the laws of man'."

"As long as we have men like you, members of the Legion, America fears no external foe. But as long as our country nurtures at her breast, these breeders of strife and hate, she is in danger.

"You, my brothers, are set up before us as an example of true, noble-minded patriotic American citizenship. We look to you for that spirit which will guide us to make sacrifices for our common cause. We expect of you, by virtue of your well-earned influence in our social and political life, to lead the way in the nation's attempt to rid herself of these dangers that now surround her."

Children's Book Week Nov. 17-25

About 850 new books are being published for American children this fall. This is the largest number of children's books ever issued in a single publishing season, and will bring the total of new juvenile titles for the year to a figure very much higher than the total for 1928.

Commenting on this increase in the number of books issued for young people Miss Marion Humble, executive secretary, National Association of Book Publishers, New York said: "Booksellers throughout the country report that there is an increasingly active and intelligent demand for children's books. The younger generation has the reading habit, and the varied interests of modern children have brought many new types of books into prominence, books on aviation, radio, applied science, books of discovery and exploration, and stories frof roeign countries. The old favorites are still in demand and a number of delightful new editions of children's classics are to be issued this fall.

"The attractive children's rooms in public libraries, changing educational methods and the growth of school libraries throughout the country are increasing children's interest in recreational reading.

"The census bureau reported that 25 million juvenile volumes, exclusive of textbooks, were produced in the United States in 1925. The 1927 figures showed a remarkable increase to 31 million. Publishers expect the total for 1929 to show an even larger gain."

Public libraries and schools are now making plans to observe the eleventh annual Children's Book Week, November 17 to 23. Book play and pageants, essay contests and exhibits of the best books for children will be arranged for the week in many cities.

The general federation of women's clubs is sponsoring a contest, offering prizes for the most interesting and constructive observances of the week, organized by women's clubs. A first prize of fifty dollars and a second prize of twenty-five dollars will be awarded by the Division of Literature, is directing the contest.

Other organizations which are taking an active part in preparations for Book Week are the Boy Scouts of America, National Congress of Parents and Teachers, American Library Association, Camp Fire Girls, National Board of Review of Motion Pictures, Kiwanis International, and many state and city groups interested in children's welfare. The slogan for the week is "More Books in the Home."

WORLD PEACE TALK.

THERE is altogether too much talk, says Benito Mussolini, about peace these days.

The Italian premier, beetling his brows in the true strongman tradition, is vexed. He tells his subjects that it is idle to talk about peace; that there are crises in international affairs when there is no way out but war, and that only fools will suppose that talking will remedy matters.

It is quite true that more has been said and written about peace in the last year than in the whole decade preceding it. You cannot pick up any newspaper or magazine without reading some appeal for peace. It has actually become possible for an American to urge a reduction in the size of the navy without being branded as a second Benedict Arnold.

The question, however, is this—just how much good is all of this talking and writing going to do? Are we really bringing world peace nearer? Or is Mussolini right? Will there presently come a time when all of our fair words will be blown away and we shall plunge frantically into another war, as we have in the past?

The answer, of course, is—it's up to us. We can have continued peace if we really want it. War is never "inevitable." It is never, as Mussolini says, the only practical way out of a difficulty.

Consider, for instance, the situation in 1914.

Looking back, it seems almost incredible that the war should have begun as it did. Nobody wanted it. Surely, no one will contend that the murder of an Austrian archduke by a Serbian fanatic made it necessary for all of Europe to go to war.

The foreign offices of the nations involved, however, were cursed with the presence of a number of gentlemen who had Mussolini's idea—the idea that war is the only way of settling a dispute between nations. So war came; and the world paid, for the blindness of those statesmen, some 5,000,000 young lives.

Now, eleven years after the close of that war, the world is talking about peace. And diehards of the old school, like Mussolini, are resentful. They are trying to tell us that we are doomed, forever, to go on blundering from one catastrophe to another.

If we are wise, we will go on talking about peace; talking about it in season and out of season, until the closed minds of the Mussolinis of this world are cracked open and a little daylight seeps in to enlighten them.

We can have everlasting peace if we want it. And the only way to prove that we want it is to keep talking about it.

OUR UNTRUTHFUL DRIVERS

AUTOMOBILE drivers as a class are fearfully untruthful people, if figures collected by George A. Parker, Massachusetts registrar of motor vehicles, can be believed.

Registrar Parker declares that out of more than 30,000 persons who were questioned by his office last year after they had figured in motor accidents, only six were truthful enough to admit that they had been driving faster than 20 miles an hour when the accident happened.

Furthermore, he added, only one man in the 30,000 admitted that he had been at fault.

We don't know just what these figures prove, except that the average motorist always believes he is right. And that's not so hard to believe, either.

THAT "RED MENACE" AGAIN.

EDWIN MARSHALL HADLEY of Chicago, former president of the Military Intelligence Association, demands that the Senate investigate Communistic propaganda and the extent to which it is disseminated in the American public school system.

There's no real need for such an investigation, but it might not be a bad idea to have it, at that. Perhaps it would reveal, to some of our eternally apprehensive super-patriots, that the "Communist menace" in this country is so slight as to be practically non-existent.

This nation is just about as apt to go red because of Communist propaganda in its schools as it is to return to negro slavery. If a senatorial investigation would serve to reveal that fact, and thereby deprive a few professional red-baiters of their thunder, it might be a good thing.

OUR GAMBLING BILL.

THE amazing statement that $4,000,000,000 changes hands annually in the United States through commercialized gambling is made in the current North American Review by Howard McLellan.

McLellan itemizes the nation's gambling bill as follows:

Baseball pools, $500,000,000; policy games (lotteries based on daily totals of bank clearings, etc.), $300,000,000; racetrack betting, $1,000,000,000; handbook betting on races, $800,000,000; cards, dice and similar games of chance, $1,000,000,000; bucket shops, $500,000,000.

It is impossible for the average man to estimate the accuracy of these figures, of course. But if they represent anything like the truth—and McLellan asserts that they are an underestimate, if anything—our gambling problem is a far greater one than most of us have supposed.

CHAPTER XXIV.

It was several days before Brent wentup to Bramblewood following the Sunday afternoon of Bob's rescue of Helen on the lake. His plans had been slow in maturing inasmuch as Helen's actions had an important bearing upon them.

On Monday he had telephoned to ask her to come down to New York and lunch with him, but she said her grandfather's condition required her to be with him.

The next day Brent telephoned a second time, only to receive the same message. He felt it unwise to be too insistent and on Wednesday he decided to drive up to Yonkers and see for himself whether it really was the seriousness of her grandfather's illness that kept Helen at Bramblewood or whether Bob Ennis had anything to do with it.

On that day Mr. Cunningham was better and Brent was convinced that he had not been so ill as Helen pretended. "She did not want to see me," he conceded.

But his conclusion was a trifle puzzling to him, because in manner she had not greatly changed toward him. She did not speak of Bob and Brent had no desire to bring up his name.

Had he been able to question her fully he would have learned that concern for her grandfather had driven all other thoughts from her mind—all thoughts except the one that she might need someone to lean upon when death finally claimed the frail old man who had become so dear to her.

Instinctively she turned to Brent when she thought of being left entirely alone in the world. But it was not the turning of one blindly in love and Brent sensed the difference, although he did not correctly analyze it.

"You mustn't exhaust yourself so," he said to her while she was pouring tea for him. "I never saw your hands shake like that before. Don't you go out at all?"

"I haven't been out since Sunday."

"Don't you think you could leave your grandfather tomorrow and come down to New York? We will go to a matinee and I'll have you back here early."

"I'd like to," Helen admitted. "He is much better today; perhaps he will be able to sit up tomorrow. Time passes much faster for him when he is at the window."

"What does the doctor say about him."

"He says he is getting stronger. I mean stronger than he has been since Sunday, but that he will never be well again."

"He might live for years."

"No, not for years, but the doctor said he might linger for months—even a year. But any sudden shock will kill him."

Her words, serious as they were to Helen, were of greater significance to Brent. Even a few months he told himself, might be sufficient time for Helen to realize that being in love and being in love with love are two different things.

At that moment in Leonard Brent's mind, the seal was finally set upon Mr. Cunningham's fate.

"Will you telephone me in the morning?" he asked Helen, "to let me know if you will lunch with me."

Helen promised, and shortly afterward Brent took his departure. He did not go up to take leave of Mr. Cunningham.

He spent a restless night—not because he was troubled by his conscience but because the daring of his plan was perfectly apparent to him. If anything went wrong he would be unable to explain the act that he now depended upon to clear his path.

"But the odds are with me," he encouraged himself. "I've got to gamble."

Helen called him at 10 o'clock to say she would meet him for lunch, but that she could not stay to attend a matinee. Her grandfather's condition was slightly worse.

"But I told him last night that I might go down today," she explained to Brent, "and he insists that I go."

"Tell him I'm much obliged," Brent said pleasantly. "I've missed you, dear."

When he saw her she showed evidence of being under a severe strain.

"We will lunch in some quiet place," he told her, "and then I'll drive you home. It will be good for you to be out of doors."

Helen welcomed the suggestion of driving back to Bramblewood. "But we mustn't be too long at lunch," she pointed out, "or I won't have time to drive up. I promised to be back by tea."

Her information gave Brent a new thought. He began to act on it at lunch by ordering dishes that would require special preparation. Helen protested the delay but Brent assured her he would make up the time on the road.

"You need to relax and stop worrying," he cautioned her. A moment later he signaled the head waiter and whispered to him while Helen sat with her eyes closed, trying to overcome her weariness.

Presently a beautiful orchid corsage was brought to her. She put out her hand across the table in thanking Brent and for a moment he wondered if he had not been unduly alarmed about Bob Ennis.

But on the drive to Yonkers she was silent and pensive. Brent hardened his heart to carry out his plans, knowing that defeat for him might well be behind her mood.

He too fell silent and they were only a short distance from Bramblewood when that which he had planned occurred. Suddenly, and without apparent reason, the car lurched to one side of the road. Brent had allowed the front wheels to strike a rut and had not attempted to control it. This gave him an opportunity to drive the car off the road under pretense of getting it righted.

It happened so quickly that Helen had no time to realize what Brent had done. She thought that he had been careless but she did not question its being an accident.

They came to a stop in a weed-grown depression so deep that Brent was unable to get the car back on the road under its own power.

"I'll have to go for help," he said to Helen when finally he appeared to accept the inevitable. "Fortunately we are near Bramblewood. They ought to be able to pull us out with the service car."

Helen started to climb to the ground. "I'll walk with you," she said.

"If you don't mind," Brent objected quickly, "I'd rather you stayed here. I've some things in the car that I shouldn't like to leave unguarded. Besides, you are probably pretty badly shaken up. Better wait here, dear."

Helen sank back in the seat. She was a bit unnerved and very tired. The walk held no particular appeal for her.

"I won't be long," Brent promised and started off.

When he reached Bramblewood he asked for Marks, and told Ashe not to say in Mr. Cunningham's presence who it was that wanted to see his attendant.

"Miss Nellin and I have met with a slight accident," he explained, "and I wish to inquire if Mr. Cunningham's condition will permit us to tell him of it."

"He is not very good, sir," Ashe volunteered.

"Too bad," Brent said feelingly. "Try not to disturb him when you send Marks down."

When Marks came a few minutes later Brent told him that his car was ditched and asked him to send someone to get it to Bramblewood.

"I'll go up and reassure Mr. Cunningham," he said, moving toward the door.

"Please be careful Mr. Brent," Marks replied uneasily. "He has been fretting about Miss Nellin's absence. If he thought anything had happened to her . . ."

"I understand," Brent said. "I won't excite him."

But when he reached the sick man's room he was, even without words, a startling visitor. He had left his hat downstairs and his graying hair was now wildly disordered.

With a jerk he had loosened his tie. His coat was pulled off one shoulder and one cuff of his shirt was hanging below his tugged-up coatsleeve.

Altogether he was as dishevelled as he could make himself. He burst into Mr. Cunningham's room with the abruptness of a man who had lost all his self control.

The invalid, watching the door for Helen's coming, sat up with a start.

Brent came on, staggering slightly, and clutching at his throat with one hand while the other groped for support on the air.

Quite close to the bed he stopped and appeared to see the man upon it for the first time since he had entered the room.

Mr. Cunningham's face was as white as his pillow and his eyes were horribly distended. "What is it" he attempted to say, but there was nothing more than a croak to issue from his blue lips.

"Oh my God!" Brent cried, as though the words had been wrung from him in agony. "Helen! Helen! She has been killed."

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE DELFT.

Mysterious destruction and sudden death have been associated with dragons in the Orient since time immemorial and research into ancient Chinese lore uncovered many amazing facts for the use in the new Paramount all talking mystery melodrama, "The Mysterious Dr. Fu Manchu," which will show at the Delft beginning today.

The dragon in mythical history and early oriental legends is regarded as a symbol of evil and destructive forces and the earliest conception is embodied in the Babylonian myth of Tiamat, the great she-dragon. Tiamat played havoc with humanity until she was slain by the demiurge Merodach. From the Orient, the legendary conception of the dragon spread westward. As the highest feat of courage, mythical heroes set out to slay some mythical dragon.

In selecting a blood-stained dragon as the emblem of a sinister and unseen menace in "The Mysterious Dr. Fu Manchu," Director Rowland V. Lee makes use of the fact that, because the dragon has made its greatest impression on the oriental mind, it has come to be associated with deep, mysterious happenings with an oriental background. Hundreds of authentic photographs of oriental dragons were studied before the emblem used in the picture was finally selected.

Throughout this story of "The Mysterious Dr. Fu Manchu," the dragon mysteriously appears in the hands of those marked for a sudden and terrible end. In addition to Warner Oland in the title role, the cast includes O. P. Heggie, Jean Arthur, Neil Hamilton and William Austin.

AT THE STRAND.

"Some Mother's Boy," the Rayart picture which brings fresh plaudits to its star, the ever popular Marry Carr, will be shown at the Strand again today. Jobyna Ralston and Jason Robards are said to give splendid performances as well.

The script is by Arthur Hoerl, who has delivered a strong story which moves along at a rapid pace to its gripping climax. It is a crook drama with mother love the pivot upon which the plot revolves.

Duke Worne, who has made a name for himself as a director of various, red-blooded screen fare is responsible for this one, which is a Trem Carr Production.

HEALTH

A special committee undertook the survey for the Carnegie Foundation of the entire question of hygeine of athletic training.

In 22 universities and colleges which were selected to represent conditions over the United States, 43,923 male students were found to be engaged actively in 13 branches of athletics. Among this almost 44,000, there were 1320 serious injuries and accidents during the year, including chronic sprains, dislocations, concussions, fractures, collapses and internal injuries.

The common notion that football is the most hazardous was substantiated by the fact that there were 649 football injuries, 166 baseball, 130 basketball, 80 wrestling, 74 boxing and 73 track and field, notwithstanding the fact that there were 9626 man playing basketball as compared with 5400 in football and 6955 in baseball.

Intercollegiate football, according to the figures, is three times as hazardous as inter-class football. Apparently 12 out of every 100 football players receive injuries during the season, usually in the form of fractures, dislocations and cronic sprains that disable the men for more than three weeks.

Considering the number of men engaged, football shows an excessively high incidence of injuries and the same is true of boxing, la crosse, soccer and wrestling.

When the coaches were asked their opinion, they pointed out that some methods of coaching ignore the hazards to life and limb and look only to the winning of contests.

In some places men are played who are not properly conditioned and in other places players kept in the contest even after they are exhausted, because of lack of suitable replacement material. Finally, there is the charge of inadequate medical examination and supervision of athletes and the making of too rigorous schedules, usually planned to build up attendance.

France was without a government for 12 days while a new premier was being picked out, but nobody made the mistake of sending any of that loan to the United States.

Too much sleep is a vicious habit, says a University of Pittsburgh professor. It certainly is, professor, the way folks go about the job with a snarl.

Mr. Youngquist, who succeeds Mabel Walker Willebrandt, says he is not a fanatic. Well, who said he was?

A SMILE OR TWO.

What you can do
With a smile or two
As you tramp along through the dust, the dew!
There is not a day that a smile won't fit,
There is not a night but has need of it,
There is not a soul, what the joy it had,
That a smile won't make just a bit more glad,
There is not a heart that is bowed with cares
That a smile won't help with the load it bears.
You may have no wealth you can give, it's true—
But what you can do
With a smile or two!

What you can do
With a smile or two
When the load is yours, and the pilgrim you!
On the swarming road, at the narrow gate,
There are some who quarrel, meet hate with hate,
But you'll find a smile is the wiser plan—
It is hard to fight with a smiling man.
There are some so great, there are some so proud,
That they bar the way to the snarling crowd—
If you MUST go on, if you MUST get through,
Then what you can do
With a smile or two!

What you can do
With a smile or two
As you tramp along through the dust, the dew!
It will open doors, it will open hearts,
It will light a lamp when the sun departs,
It will lift a soul that a grief has known,
It will lift a soul and will life your own,
Make a fairer world, make a shorter mile,
Make the night content, make the day worth while!
When the sky is gray, when it should be blue,
Then what you can do
With a smile or two!

Several Automobile Accidents Occur In County Over Sunday

Several automobile accidents occurred in Escanaba and vicinity, but none was of serious consequence.

An automobile, driven by Charles Holm of Gladstone, collided with a Wisconsin car at Narenta about 8 o'clock Sunday evening, causing slight damage to the front end of both vehicles. One woman occupant of the Holm car was slightly injured.

State police, who were returning from a raid on the Dewar "beer house" near Perronville in Menominee county, figured in a smashup when their automobile overturned near Narenta early yesterday morning. One of the girls, who was arrested at the Dewar place and who was being returned to her home by the officers, was slightly bruised.

Two automobile, one driven by Charles A. Kula of Iron Mountain and the other by Steve Lyons of Escanaba, came together at Spa'ding Sunday night. Both were slightly damaged. Isadore Reno, Garden, driving a Hudson sedan, collided with the Boisclair delivery truck, operated by Elmer Johnson, at the corner of Stephenson avenue and Fifth avenue north, Saturday night. Little damage was done.

Swedish Museum Awaiting Escanaba's Bid for Place

This is the second of a series of letters, written especially for Press readers by Herman G. Nelson. The next will appear in the Press Wednesday morning.

BY HERMAN G. NELSON

Gothenburg, Sweden, Sept. 10—Keeping in touch with the activities and achievements of 3,000,000 Swedish men and women who have emigrated to all parts of the world and the descendants of this large group is the important work of Riksforeningen for Svenskhetens Bevarande i Utlandet (National Society for the Preservation of Swedish in Foreign Countries), with headquarters at Gothenburg, through which port has passed the stream of emigration for the last three generations and through which tourists from many countries now return to visit their native land.

While visiting the Utlandsvenska museum in Gothenburg, conducted by Riksforeningen, the first day after our arrival on Swedish soil, it was our good fortune to meet the head of the organization, John Stenung, and to speak to him for half an hour of the activities of Swedish-Americans in Escanaba, Rockford, Chicago, and other cities.

Explanations Made

The manner in which I met Mr. Stenung was in true American fashion, combining the traits of curiosity and persistence. Not knowing that the museum had only been started a year ago, although organization of the idea dates back five years, my wife and I were disappointed when after looking around we found the museum quite incomplete in mention of Swedish-American activities. Finding a door closed the writer thrust it open and met face to face Mr. Stenung.

Explanation was made that the museum was just in the process of being built up. The writer answered many questions asked by Mr. Stenung concerning America.

The possibilities of the Utlandsvenska museum are tremendous. Swedish people have made their homes in all parts of the world to the number of 3,000,000. Their achievements and those of their descendants have been numerous, and it is the purpose of the museum not only to gather the history of the past of the Swedish settlers in foreign lands but Mr. Stenung's vision is to gather material for a comprehensive scope of the present generation and to continue the work year by year.

In time the museum will include a large library. Mr. Stenung having as his objective the filing of all books by Swedich writers whether in Swedish or another language published abroad, as well as copies of books relating to the history of Swedes in other lands.

Escanaba Has Chance

Recommendation is made that some Swedish organization or church in Escanaba get in touch with Mr. Stenung and become affiliated with Riksforeningen for Svenskhetens Bevarande i Utlandet. It is quit possible that Escanaba can gain a place and mention in the museum . Especially is this true of the achievement of the Swedish Lutheran church of which the Rev. Dr. C. A. Lund is pastor.

It was in the year 1637 that the Calmare Nyckel and Fagel Grip sailed to New Sweden with the first emigrants to America. In 1927 Swedish boats alone carried 35,000 Swedes back and forth across the Atlantic. Most of these were tourists, immigration restrictions by the United States having tended greatly to diminish emigration from Sweden. America is still the land of milk and honey to the Swedish young man and woman.

The writer remained in Gothenburg only two days, but the impression gained of the city was that it is progressive and modern. Its population is 260,000. Buildings are being torn down just like in America to make room for larger and those of more modern construction; others are being remodeled in the large and centralized business section; while large apartments have been built in recent years bordering the touchdown, and in the residential portions many beautiful homes are under construction. Gothenburg'h buildings are not tall, but they cover much ground and are solid and substantial in architecture. A building now under construction will rise 14 stories to become the city's tallest building.

Gothenburg is foreign in many ways, yet quite American, especially to the Swedish-American who speaks and understands the language. Though very little difference in dress exists between most Swedish persons and the American, yet an American is invariably spotted wherever he goes. Though unusually polite, the Swedish person does not consider it rude to stop and stare at you and should you slow down and strain your ears you usually overhear the remark: "He is American," or "They are Americans."

On leaving New York, the writer saw a dozen Nash cars boxed up for foreign shipment being loaded for export to Sweden. Strange enough, the first sight to catch the attention of the writer on the landing pier at Gothenburg was the unloading of a Nash car by a derrick onto a truck to be carried to the local Nash dealer.

With only one automobile manufactured in Sweden, and with American cars underselling this make, American autos are very popular. Ford are unusually common as are Chevrolets and Buicks. A number of Packards were noted in Gothenburg.

Word of one's activity travels rapidly, and the writer was made aware of this fact on arrival at Gothenburg. Before custom officers had even passed on our baggage, inquiry was made for Herman G. Nelson, of Rockford, Ill., and Escanaba, Mich. Completely surprisd, the writer and his wife investigated and found that a Mrs. G. A. Johnansson and her son, Carl Gustaf, had sent out the tracer. The writer was not acquainted with a Johansson, but it did not take long to learn that word had been sent to her by Mrs. Amanda Sanders, of Escanaba, Mich., that I was coming. Mrs. Johansson is a sister of Martin Sanders, of Escanaba, and last summer Mrs. Sanders and daughter, Miss Anna Sanders, had visited with Mrs. Johansson in Nerke. They had recently moved to Gothenburg and took the friendly interest o look the newcomers up at the dock.

Pleasant Stay

It was the honor of my wife and I to be treated to our first Swedish coffee "kalas" at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Johansson the following morning after arrival on Swedish soil. The writer is much indebted for information sent to Sweden by Mrs. Sanders which helped to make more pleasant our stay in Gothenburg.

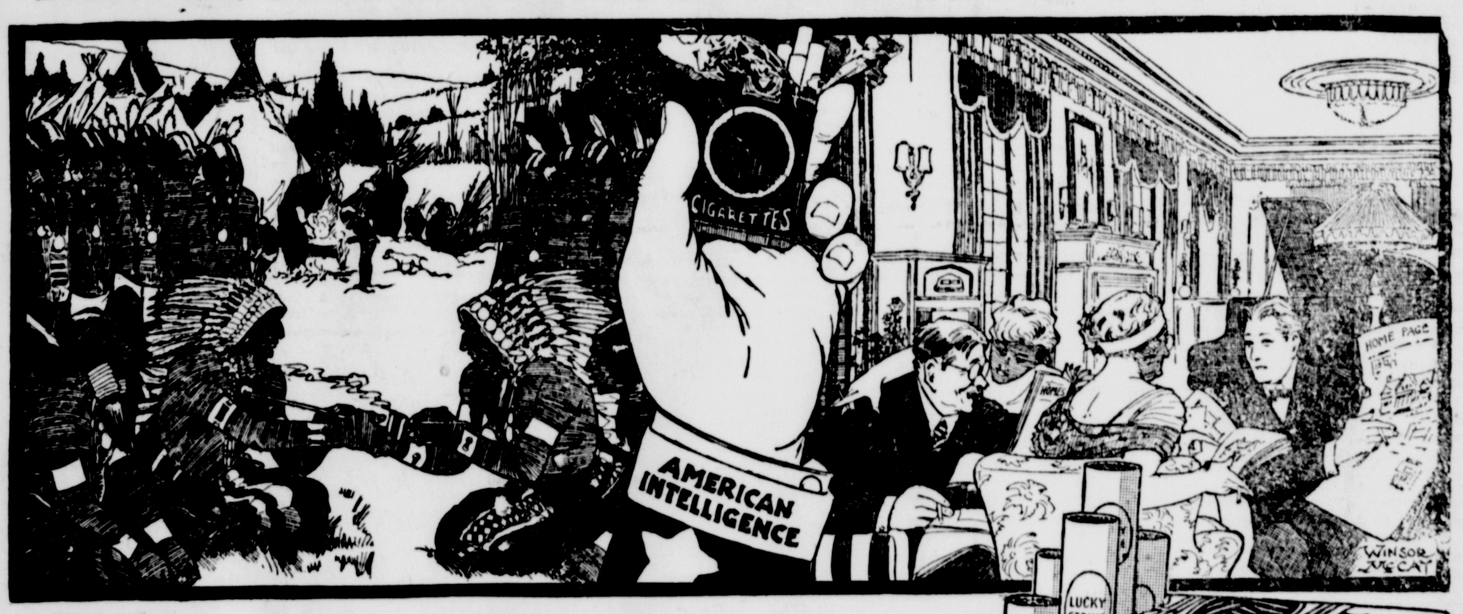
Women Have Something to Say!

AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE has ridiculed into oblivion that ancient prejudice which excluded women from a voice in council. Today, in millions of homes, the delicious flavor of LUCKY STRIKE fills the room as the family group respects the opinion of its women folk.



"toasting did it"—

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

"It's toasted"

Needless Pain!

The man who wouldn't drive his motorcar half a mile when it's out of order, will often drive his brain all day with a head that's throbbing.

Such punishment isn't very good for one's nerves! It's unwise, and it's unnecessary. A tablet or two of Bayer Aspirin will relieve a headache every time. So, remember this accepted antidote for pain, and spare yourself a lot of needless suffering. Read the proven directions and you'll discover many valuable uses for these tablets. For headaches; to check colds. To ease a sore throat and reduce the infection. For relieving neuralgic, neuritic, rheumatic pain.

People used to wonder if Bayer Aspirin was harmful. The doctors answered that question years ago. It is not. Some folks still wonder if it really does relieve pain. That's settled! For millions of men and women have found it does. To cure the cause of any pain you must consult your doctor; but you may always turn to Bayer Aspirin for immediate relief.

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

GERO

The Universal special feature "Scandal," which comes to the Gero theatre is based upin the actual life of a young girl who had virtually all of the experiences which happen to Laura LaPlante as the star of the picture.

Written by Adela Rogers St. Johns for Cosmopolitan magazine the action faithfully follows the vicissitudes of a prominent New York society leader who lived not only in the joyous whirl of pleasure, but who knew, too, all the problems of the young business woman in the ordinary workaday world.

Throughout the living character's adventures there was woven the unique love story which inspired Miss St. Johns to write the story as fiction.

The picture was filmed in Santa Barbara, Cal., famed throughout the world as the beautiful home of America's gayest society set. Besides Miss LaPlante the picture bring to the Gero theatre a noteworthy cast including Hunt'y Gordon, John Boles, Jane Winton, and others. Also in the picture there appear as "extras" in the society scenes wealthy Santa Barbara families.

Residential Building Decline Caused by Tight Money-Babson

Babson Park, Mass., Nov. 11.—Statistics clearly indicate that building is on a downward trend. Except for a brief recovery about mid-year, 1929 has witnessed an almost constant falling off in building contracts awarded compared with 1928. The decline became very pronounced in September which was 25 per cent under a year ago and 10 per cent lower than August. Residential building has been hit the hardest for two reasons. (1) Speculative construction is mostly of a residential character and particularly sensitive to high interest rates and heavy carrying charges. (2) There are plenty of new residences to supply the demand and in some cases cities have definitely over-built along this line.

This does not mean that a panic necessarily will ensue in the building industry. The growth of the population will always require building of new homes. A temporary breathing spell, however, appears to have come.

Mortgage Money Scarce.

Moreover, history of building operations shows clearly that they fluctuate in volume with the trend of interest rates. In the past ten years building has always responded to low rates and has continued in high volume just as long as money was easy. Conversely, severe tightening in money, even though comparatively temporary, has always caused recession in building. We are now faced with a situation where mortgage money has become both high and scarce. The drastic liquidation in the stock market which we have seen recently will tend to ease credit to some extent. The drop in the rediscount rate indicates this. However, interest rates are still high in comparison with recent years.

Financing Charges Burdensome.

Particularly burdensome to new building operations are the bonuses demanded on construction loans, running sometimes as high as 15 per cent. This practice has been going on for some time, but as long as property could be sold readily, speculative builders were willing to pay these charges in the hope of passing them along to the buyer. Now, however, when the building shortage has been fully made up, property moves slower and the heavy financing charges become unbearable. This results in foreclosure sales by first and second mortgagees on speculative property. There may indeed be excellent opportunities uncovered within the next few months to buy in good residential properties at attractive prices because of forced selling.

Second Mortgages Affected.

As one would naturally expect, the second mortgages are now even more difficult to place and entail heavy discounts and high interest rates. Developers of subdivisions usually plan to put up second mortgages as collateral for funds with which to start new building. Now it is necessary to pay such high rates and to accept such great discounts on these mortgages that there is little incentive for carrying on new developments. Discounts as high as 40 per cent on second mortgages are common. Inasmuch as a large part of our total building is done for speculation it is natural that we should now experience a marked decline in operations.

Home Builder in the Best Position

The man who is building a home is in a preferred position today. Banks which hesitate to loan for speculation are willing to go far for the man who is building his own home. This assumes, of course, that the man has a good reputation in the community. In fact, present conditions may become more favorable than unfavorable for such a builder. If a man is putting in a fairly good equity he will find the banks ready to co-operate with him. Also he obtains the benefit of more favorable contract prices from builders who are anxious to keep their organizations intact during the dull winter period. Naturally under such conditions building material prices are lower, and efficiency of labor is greater. Hence, the man building for a home may find that this is an opportune rather than an inopportune time to do so.

Bargains in Real Estate May Be Uncovered.

The crash in the stock market may have a definite effect on real estate. The public was in this stock market as never before and the public has suffered more than the professionals from the decline. Hence, some distress selling may come in the residential real estate market as a result of stock market losses. There should be uncovered some very good bargains in desirable properties. Of course, in the long run the severe lesson taught by the stock market decline should be beneficial to building and real estate. It will tend to ease money and people will begin to think of something else besides buying stocks.

Ultimately this money situation will change and lower rates once more prevail. This change may require some time, but the economic history of interest rates is sure to repeat itself. Furthermore, scaling down in construction now should prove a salutary development because it will give the demand for new building a chance to catch up with the supply. The fundamental growth of the country's population alone will take care of that; also well situated land is steadily rising in value. There is only so much desirable land and there will never be any more. However, this is no time for speculation in building, real estate, or anything else! The man who performs the real service today, and the one who will reap rewards for such service, is the man who uses his cash to buy good bonds or to build his own home. By doing the former he will help to stabilize the security market, and by doing the latter he will aid in preventing a more drastic decline in the building industry.

Business by the Babsonchart is now 3 per cent above normal compared with 10 per cent above a year ago.

Cooks Man Finds Horse In Well After Long Hunt

Cooks, Nov. 9 (By Special Correspondent)—About three weeks ago, John Leveille missed one of his horses which had been on pasture. Continued search and reepated enquiries failed to give any satisfaction as to the whereabouts of the animal. Several days ago the animal was found in an open well by Joseph Spielmacher who was out looking up some cattle. The well which was on the Joseph Wright place had not been in use for a number of years. Indications were that the animal had been in there a long time. The hind part of the body was submerged in the water and the head and forefeet protruding, indicating that he had tried hard to climb out and had died from exhaustion and starvation rather than from drowning. He was a young draft horse valued at about $225.

Liquidation Forces Prices to New Low Levels

STOCK MARKET AVERAGES
(By The Associated Press)

High 1929	252.8	167.8	353.1
Low 1929	158.3	128.1	184.9

Total sales 3,367,000 shares.

New York, Nov. 11 (AP)—The stock market was crushed to depths unpenetrated during the recent selling panic during the last half hour of trading today, as further liquidation of an urgent character was dumped onto the market.

Trading had displayed a notable slackening until toward the close of the three-hour session, and the ticker had kept well abreast of the market, but the late rush of selling carried the day's total sales of 3,367,150 shares, slightly exceeding Friday's turnover of 3,214,600 shares. Leading issues were depressed from 4 to 25 points, and the Standard Statistics Co.-Associated Press indices of all groups reached new low levels for the year.

Banks' Hands Off

The banking consortium apparently made no effort to check the decline, feeling that the volume of selling was not large enough to call for emergency measures. Prices displayed discouragingly little resistance to the selling. Traders who have been buying on declines hoping to get stocks at the bottom had evidently been disappointed too often of late, and had retired to the sidelines. Considerable short selling was reported, but it was inadequate to lend resilience through covering.

There was not much in the day's news to cause any further inroads upon speculative confidence, but unsettling rumors which were promptly denied in authoritative quarters intensified the already grave state of nerves. The suicide of James J. Riordan, attributed by some to market losses, was the basis of much gloomy theorizing, although reports that he had participated in a large pool were denied.

Call Money Steady

Call money held officially at 6 per cent, although it was available in the outside market at 5½. Most observers regarded the 6 per cent rate as artificial, believing that banking interests fear a decline would result in heavy withdrawals by both domestic and foreign lenders in order to place their funds at more lucrative rates elsewhere. While brokers' loans have decreased since September to the extent of about 30 per cent, the credit situation is painted in rather conservative colors in some quarters, where it is pointed out that stocks have dropped about 40 per cent and that credit may be clogged considerably by heavy loans against new and undigested securities, which were issued in enormous volume just before the market collapsed, are stressed in some quarters.

Week end business reviews pointed to some further price cutting in automobiles and radio sets, but indicates the industries were struggling with over production and keen competition before the stock market debacle. Such extensive chain store systems as Kroger Grocery and Safeway Stores reported satisfactory sales during October, and further gratifying curtailment of crude oil production was reported from California. The list of New York brokerage firms that have failed during the trying market was raised to three, with the announcement that a produce exchange house had failed, but like the two curb house failures previously announced, the firm was small and a negligible factor in Wall Street.

Commodities Depressed

Commodity markets were mostly depressed. Although the Chicago Board of Trade was closed in observance of Armistice Day, wheat was under pressure on foreign markets. Cotton dropped about $1 a bale to new low levels for the season, reflecting the break in stocks, lower Liverpool cables, and lack of confident buying.

Foreign exchanges were dull and fairly steady, although Sterling cables sagged 1-16 of a cent to $4.87 13-16.

BUS EVERY SIX MILES.

According to the American Automobile Association, there is one motor bus for every six miles of paved highway in the United States.

NO PROBLEM AT ALL.

There is little or no used car problem in Indiana. Figures of the National Association of Finance Companies show that last year in the Hoosier state 181 used cars changed hands for every 100 new cars sold.

FOR GOOD CAUSE.

California is planning to paint white traffic lines on some 1400 miles of state highway. About 20,000 gallons of paint will be used. The approximate cost will be $30,000.

Since its introduction into England and Wales in July, 1901, 429,337 finger-prints have been filed at Scotland Yard.

Total bond sales (par value) $13,490,000.

New York, Nov. 11 (AP)—Only a fair investment demand came into the bond market today and prices in the general list developed an irregular trend. High grade issues were moderately supported, but liquidation depressed speculative and semi-speculative issues as holdings in these groups were again sold to provide funds for stock market purposes. Time money was dull and unchanged at 6 per cent for all maturities.

Liberty bonds commanded considerable attention, but made only slight fluctuations. Buying of the investment rails brought fractional increases to numerous loans, while a few rose a point or more.

Industrials were mixed, with fractional gains in Armour 4½s, Chile Copper 5s, Youngstown Sheet & Tube 5s and Liggett & Myers Tobacco 5s. Losses of about the same extent appeared in Armour 5½s, Goodrich 5s, and International Match 5s.

Utilities showed a mixture of nominal gains and losses. Foreign Sugars were weak. The Cuba Sugar listings dropped to new lows, while the Cuba Dominican 7½ certificates also touched a new bottom.

Convertibles Drop

Keeping company with the declining stocks, convertible bonds fell sharply. American Telephone 4½s lost 8½, International Telephone 4½s dropped 6½, American I. G. Chemical 5½s fell 2½, Missouri Pacific 5½s receded 2¼ and Reading Coal & Iron 6s were carried down 2 points.

Foreign loans suffered rather severely. Colombian Agricultural Bank issues sold off to new lows, British United Kingdom 5½s lost nearly a point, and numerous other government listings declined.

GOVERNMENT BONDS

New York, Nov. 11—Closing prices: Liberty 3½s, 98.14. Liberty 1st, 4¼s, 99.31. Liberty 4th, 4¼s, 99.30. U. S. Treasury 4s, 107.20. U. S. Treasury 4¼s, 111.20.

MOTORCYCLE RECORD.

What is believed to be a new world's record for motorcycles was established at Munich recently by Ernest Henne. Over a one-kilometer course he average a speed of 134.4 miles an hour.

HOW'S IT DONE?

Motorists of England are becoming more cautious. Road accidents in that country were cut 3497 during the first quarter of 1929 over the corresponding period of 1928.

MANY CARS JUNKED.

More than 2,213,000 automobiles were junked during 1928, according to the American Motorists' Association. This is 1,007,000 less than the number of new cars purchased that year.

Road racing is becoming more and more popular in Argentina. Several auto races are staged there every year.

SELLING WAVE SWAMPS CURB

New York, Nov. 11 (AP)—A steady stream of selling poured into the New York Curb market today, carrying most of the leaders down 1 to 12 points, and a few specialties much more, but only a handful of issues broke to new low levels on the current decline. All groups participated in the decline, with the public utility, oil and investment trust issues bearing the brunt of the selling pressure.

There was nothing in the business news over the week-end to account for the wave of liquidation, but the suicide of a prominet New York banker and the circulation of many alarmish rumors caused widespread uneasiness. It also was apparent that many additional weakened accounts were being cleaned out, although the day's trading was orderly in character and about normal in volume.

American Gas & Electric Bond & Share each broke 12 points, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore dropped 10 3-8, Northern States Power A 8 points and a long list of others.

Some of the selling in the oil shares may have been influenced by the cut in gasoline prices in the middle west late last week. Gulf of Pennsylvania fell 6 points, Humble 4 points, Vacuum and Indian Territorial 2 each, and Standard Oils of Indiana and Kentucky, Louisiana Land & Exploration and several others a point or more.

In the Investment Trust and Trading corporation division, Tri-Continental Allied fell nearly 7 points and Goldman Sachs, Lehman, Blue Ridge Common, Shenandoah issues and Trans-America lost 1 to 3 points.

Wide fluctuations took place in several of the high priced specialties, Aluminum Co. of America dropped 30 points to 230, which contrasts with the year's high of 539½. Sidney Blumenthal jumped 8 points, Cities Service Preferred 3 3-4; Swith & Co., 6¼ and Tubize Artificial Silk 10.

Peltin, Burns Make Long Runs to Give Escanaba Victory

After trailing six to nothing at the end of the first half, the Escanaba high school football team came back in the last half to score three times to win the annual Armistice Day game from Gladstone, 18 to 6. The game was the best for both teams. By virtue of their victory, Captain Snyder in behalf of the Escanaba team, was presented with the gold football awarded by the American Legion. The trophy will be in their possession at least one year and will be contested for again next Armistice Day. The team winning the award three times will claim permanent possession.

Peltin, Burns Star

Escanaba offense consisted of Johnny Peltin and Red Burns with Babe Ballargeon breaking through occasionally for nice gains. Peltin and Burns were the big noises, however. They sifted through the Gladstone line and around their ends almost at will, especially in the last half. One of Burns' runs was for forty yards and a touchdown and Peltin, not to be outdone, came back a few minutes later with a 45-yard run and a touchdown. It was the last game these two boys will play for Escanaba and they closed their prep career in sensational fashion.

Escanaba made nine first downs compared to three by Gladstone. All of the Keilmen's first downs were the results of passes, two of them completed by receivers and one ruled complete when Burns interfered with an eligible receiver.

Gladstone passed ten times, two of them completed for a total gain of 38 yards. Five were incomplete and three were intercepted by Escanaba. Escanaba passed three times, completing one for a 32-yard gain. None was intercepted.

Punting Averages

Snyder attempted nine punts, two of which were blocked by Gladstone. His nine attempts including those blocked averaged 25 yards. Skogquist attempted to punt ten times, averaged 26 yards including one which was blocked by Escanaba.

A marching program sponsored by the Girls Athletic association, with Miss Isabelle Peterson in charge, was a feature between halves of the game. Both high school bands gave demonstrations between halves and before the game. The raising of the flag by the American Legion was included in the ceremonies.

Play-by-play of the game:

First Period

Captain Snyder kicked off for Escanaba, defending the north goal, to Lindberg on Gladstone's 30-yard line. On the first play from scrimmage, DeHooghe shot a 25-yard shoestring pass to Murdock. Two raps at the Escanaba forward wall proved fruitless and then DeHooghe passed to O'Brien for a 12-yard gain, placing the ball on Escanaba's 16-yard line. Murray and Skogquist were held at the line of scrimmage and then DeHooghe passed incomplete over the goal line. The ball came out to Escanaba on its own 20-yard line and Gladstone's best scoring chance was gone.

Escanaba started a rally that netted them two first downs in rapid succession but they were finally forced to kick. The ball went to Gladstone's 46-yard line. Gladstone fumbled and Johnson recovered for Escanaba. Peltin made three yards through the line and then Snyder kicked to the 20-yard stripe. Skogquist kicked to Escanaba's 40-yard line but Peltin returned the kick 24 yards, placing the ball on Gladstone's 36-yard line. Peltin and Burns made first down. Burns made four more on a quarterback sneak. Anderson fumbled on the 20-yard line and Gladstone recovered. Skogquist made two yards and Murray followed with three more as the quarter ended. The score was still nothing to nothing.

Second Period

Skogquist punted for Gladstone to Peltin who was downed on his own 37-yard line. Burns picked out a hole for three yards but Peltin was stopped at the line on the next play. Snyder's kick was blocked by Gladstone on Escanaba's eight-yard line and Skogquist recovered. Two line smashes accounted for two yards, the third attempt by Skogquist was nailed for a seven-yard loss. DeHooghe dropped back for a placekick but the ball fell short of the cross bars.

Peltin slipped through for five yards but Burns was smeared at the line. On the third down, Snyder dropped back to kick and for the second time in succession, he was rushed and his punt was blocked and recovered by Gladstone behind the Escanaba goal line for the first score of the game. DeHooghe's attempted kick was blocked. Score: Gladstone 6; Escanaba 0.

Snyder kicked off to Gladstone's 15-yard line. Skogquist punted right back to Peltin. A bad pass from center and a five-yard penalty cost Escanaba 19 yards but Burns picked up 16 of them on the next play. Burns retaliated with another first down. Ballageron slipped through Gladstone's line and sped out into the clear. A touchdown for Escanaba seemed imminent but the fleet Escanaban dropped the ball. Skogquist recovered it but he dropped it, too, and Johnson finally fell on it for Escanaba on Gladstone's 17-yard line. On that play Ballageron accounted for 22 yards. Burns made two yards advancing the ball to the 15-yard line but the gun put an end to a scoring threat. The score was still Gladstone 6; Escanaba 0.

Third Period

Captain Snyder kicked off to Gladstone's 48-yard line. Both teams exchanged kicks with neither gaining an advantage. Then Skogquist's kick was blocked on Gladstone's 40-yard line. On the first play, Burns slipped through a gap in the line and sped 40 yards to the goal. It was a pretty run. Snyder missed the try for point. Score: Escanaba 6; Gladstone 6.

Snyder kicked to Gladstone's 37-yard line. Murray made a yard at guard and Skogquist punted back to Escanaba's 37-yard mark. Peltin passed 32 yards to Burns to the 32-yard line. Ballorgeon, Peltin and Burns made it first downs on the 18-yard line as the quarter ended. The score was still deadlocked at 6-6.

Fourth Period

Burns and Peltin were stopped at the line of scrimmage. Peltin lined a pass to Burns but the ball was knocked down behind the goal line. The ball was Gladstone's on its own 20-yard marker. Skogquist punted to mid-meld. Burns reeled off five yards and then Peltin zipped through the entire Gladstone team, ran 45 yards over the goal line for the score that put Escanaba in the lead for the first time. Snyder missed the try for point and the score was: Escanaba 12; Gladstone 6.

Murphy kicked off for Escanaba to the eight-yard line and Skogquist returned to kick to mid-field. It was a pretty run. Anderson intercepted DeHooge's pass on the 45-yard stripe. Burns found a hole in the line for 30 yards but the ball was taken back and Escanaba penalized fifteen yards. Peltin picked up 14 of them and Burns added seven more. Anderson fumbled and Gladstone recovered on the 15-yard line. Skogquist punted to Peltin who returned 19 yards to the 43-yard line. Two plays at the line gained a little but Snyder punted to Gladstone's 17-yard stripe on third down. Gladstone opened up with all the passes they had. Johnson intercepted one of them on the 20-yard line and ran it back over the goal line for another touchdown. Snyder failed to add the point. Score: Escanaba 18; Gladstone 6.

Murphy kicked off again and DeHooghe started throwing passes in every direction. Burns interfered with one of them to give Gladstone their third first down of the game. Another Gladstone pass was knocked down as the game ended.

ATTENDANCE

Paid admissions at the game totaled 2224, the crowd being somewhat smaller than that which witnesses the Menominee game this year when 2586 clicked the turnstiles. It was, however, a larger crowd than the 1808 persons who saw the Gladstone game here in 1926. Cash receipts yesterday were $940 including season tickets, and expenses of the game were about $90, school officials said.

Spartans Unused to Mississippi's Heat; Honored at Lansing

East Lansing, Mich., Nov. 11 (AP)—Greeted by a great outpouring of college spirit, the wearied Michigan State football team took its first lay off of the season today on returning from its hectic battle with Mississippi A. & M. Saturday.

The sweltering heat of a Mississippi afternoon exacted heavy tribute from the Michigan squad but the weary athletes were rewarded by the greatest display of Spartan spirit in years as they alighted from the train.

More than 3,000 students and the military band walked the three miles from the college to the station at Lansing to honor their football heroes. Preceded by a squadron of motorcycle policemen, the students paraded the streets of Lansing and poured on the capitol lawn to hear short speeches from the coaches and members of the team. Classes were excused by the administration.

Coach Crowley excused his men from any practice this afternoon in the belief that a rest would bring more good than a workout. Drills will be resumed tomorrow and Crowley hopes to have at least two scrimmages in preparation for the University of Detroit Saturday.

The Detroit game will be the final one of the season for the Michigan State and the fifth in history between the two teams. State has won only one game, that in 1923 by a score of 2 to 0. Detroit won in 1917 by a score of 14 to 0, in 1927 by a count of 24 to 7, and last year, 39 to 0.

NO CRITICISM ON MICHIGAN

Squad Starts With Light Work; Sizing Up Minnesota

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 11 (AP)—The team that conquered Harvard in spite of forward passes and first downs that ran into double figures was given a light workout this afternoon as a reward for its good work Saturday. The Michigan coaches announced they were well pleased with the work of individuals and the squad as a whole.

The practice session turned out to be leisurely journey up and down Ferry Field, while Coach Kipke explained the intimate working of three or four new plays. One of these seemed to need the presence of Norman Daniels at the Gembis halfback as he was slipped in to this position every time the play came up for consideration.

Wilson also was kept among the always present although not assigned to a place in the lineup. The first team had the men who started against Harvard as its regulars.

The men who played little of the time against Harvard scrimmaged a very nondescript combination of second strong "B" team men and freshmen. Coach Cappon had charge of this outfit and he spent the afternoon impressing the need of blocking upon Wheeler, Priest and Heston who with LaJeunesse made up the backfield.

This is a very talented backfield if it will do the heavy work of football as well as the lighter task of carrying the call. Michigan's coaches were inclined to give two sophomores great credit for their play Saturday and they were not the sophomores who scored touchdowns. Coach Oosterbaan was told emphatically when he returned here that Hewitt had displayed the greatest play of a Michigan end since Bennie graduated. The coaches also give Norman Daniels unbounded credit for his work in breaking up the Harvard long pass in the final minutes of the great battle.

So great was the satisfaction on the Michigan campus over the Harvard win, however, that criticism was wanting in all quarters. Light work will be the portion of the varsity this week, most of the time being spent in trying out the new plays and looking over the Minnesota formations, to be presented by a freshman team.

GOPHERS RECUPERATE

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 11 (AP)—Rejected but still astir mentally over the notion they will vindicate themselves soon, Minnesota gridders retturned to the practice field today and tried hard to forget the gloomy things that happened at Iowa City.

The first string eleven is temporarily in pieces following the bruising conflict with the Hawkeyes. The team is fortified, however, with the determination to whip both Michigan and Wisconsin in an effort to wipe out the sting of the defeat by Iowa. All hope not lost for appearance in play of Win Brockmeyer this season although the frail halfback took quite a battering from the Hawks.

Bootlegger Given Fines for Selling to Football Stars

Marinette, Nov. 11.—Stanley Wos, Marinette saloon keeper, whose sale of moonshine liquor to students brought on the suspension of three members of the Marinette high school football team and precipitated a strike of students, was found guilty on two counts—sale and possession—in a Marinette court. He was fined $500 on each count with costs of $24.76 and in default of payment of the fine and costs must serve six months on each charge—the terms to run concurrently in the Marinette county work house.

Among the witnesses examined were Lorenz Bordwardt, 16, ex-captain of the Purple team; Thersie Desjardine, 18, ex-backfield man; E. Johnson, ex-quarterback; Lloyd Ellison, 17, and Robert Worthner, 15.

Testimony of the boys indicated that no one but Ellinson had anything to drink, yet they had four pints of liquor and Ellinson declared he "wasn't drunk."

The boys testified to buying two pints of liquor from Woz. They also testified that they bought two pints of moonshine in Menominee, but could not identify the place they purchased it. They said it was either in "Finntown or Frenchtown."

Robert Wortner testified that he gave the liquor remaining from the "party" to an 11-year-old boy. It was the condition of the 11-year-old youngster that resulted in the investigation.

Newark, N. J., Nov. 11 (AP)—Doc Conrad, New Jersey's reigning sensation in the middleweight class, won a ten round decision boxing contest from Rene de Vos, Belgian, here tonight. Each weighed 163 pounds.

Pittsburgh, Penn., Nov. 11 (AP)—Farmer Joe Cooper of Terre Haute, Ind., won a fast action welterweight bout from Buck McTiernan of Pittsburgh in ten rounds here tonight. Cooper floored McTiernan twice, but each time the Pittsburgher scrambled to his feet without a count.

HOLIDAY JUST DAY IN BIG 10

Next Saturday Looms Up Big for Leading Contenders

Chicago, Nov. 11 (AP)—Armistice Day was just another ordinary Monday in Western conference football camps today, as preparations were started for Saturday's important contests.

Purdue, which walloped Mississippi last Saturday, jumped with both feet into the business of winding up for Iowa Saturday. With hopes of its first Big Ten title depending upon a victory over the Hawkeyes, the whole squad was driven through a sharp offensive drill.

Little work was done at Iowa, which emerged frim its victorious battle against Minnesota, with a long casualty list. Both regular guards, Myers and Roberts, were hurt, but are expected to be ready for the Purdue test. An hour of limbering up was all Coach Ingwerson required of his men.

Regulars Listen

Coach A. A. Stagg deviated from the usual Monday practice and used all hands in a long scrimmage. Afterwards the regulars were gathered around to watch the freshmen walk through Illinois plays. The Illini regulars did not even don uniforms today, but listened to Coach Zuppke's criticism on the Army game. He also impressed the squad with the fact hat Chicago is likely to be exceedingly tough Saturday.

Indiana rehearsed on defense against Norhwestern plays, and heard Coach Pat Page's scouting report on he play of the Wildcats at Ohio State last week. Page indicated that reserves will start he game against Norhwestern Saturday, following their showings in practice last week. Northwestern's squad was not called upon for hard work, but will get down to work tomorrow, for the Indiana game.

Wisconsin, Ohio, Idle

At Michigan Coach Harry Kipke spent the practice period in outlining new plays to be used against Minnesota Saturday. He gave much attention to Norman Daniels, who is slated to play in the Wolverine backfield, at least part of he time against the Gophers, because of his pass catching ability. Michigan came through the victory over Harvard with only one casulty, Hudson, who was severely bruised.

Minnesota's battered eleven was given a day of rest, while Coach Spears worked with the reserves and freshmen. Injuries suffered by Win Brockmeyer, halfback and Clarence Munn, tackle, in the Iowa game, may keep them out of the Michigan tussle Saturday.

Neither Wisconsin nor Ohio State worked today. The Badgers have an open date Saturday and will not begin preparation for Minnesota a week hence, until later in the week. The Buckeyes also will coast most of the week, no particular preparation being planned for their game with Kenyon Saturday.

GARDEN GRABS FIGHTING MAX

Sews German, Briton and Argentine Up on Contract

New York, Nov. 11 (AP)—Madison Square Garden has purchased from Humbert Fugazy, promoter, the contract right to the services of Max Schmeling of Germany; Phil Scott of England, and Victorio Campolo of the Argentine, it was announced tonight.

The consideration was in the neighborhood of $75,000 it was understood in fistic circles.

This deal, fruit of weeks of negotiations, gives the Garden a virtual monopoly of the heavyweights who are serious contenders for the crown vacated by Gene Tunney. The Garden already has Jack Sharkey, considered the leading contender, under contract for a fight at Miami this winter. Scott and Schmeling have been mentioned as the next best bets in a somewhat mediocre field. Campolo, although beaten by Scott, won high praise from many boxing experts who believe that in time the huge South American will be a champion.

Set For Sharkey

More important, in one way, was the fact that the deal apparently removes the last obstacle in the way of a Sharkey-Schmelin gmatch. The Garden was threatened with suspension by the New York state athletic commission if it insisted upon continuing its efforts to match these two heavyweights before Schmeling fulfilled a contract to meet Scott for Fugazy. With Fugazy no longer holding any claims on Schmeling's service, the boxing commission's objections should no longer exist.

Indications tonight were that the Garden would endeavor to match Schmeling and Sharkey for the Miami fight probably in February.

Included in the deal was Gustavo Leneve's managerial contract on Campolo, now in South America, insisted that Leneve's contract must be relinquished before he would return to the United States. Fugazy holds Campolo's signature to contracts for four matches. The Italian promoter also holds a contract on Schmeling to fight Scott and a similar one on Scott.

Knute Rockne Back Directing Practice

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 11 (AP)—Coach Knute Rockne, who has been confined to his home with an infected knee, will direct the practice of the Notre Dame football team tomorrow for the first time in three weeks, it was announced today.

Every regular and shock trooper of the Irish squad was in uniform at the practice tonight, the first time this year such a Monday routine has been followed after a Saturday game.

According to present plans, Rockne will continue his direction of the Notre Dame squad through the Southern California game at Chicago Saturday.

TALLENT STARS AT MENOMINEE

Michigan Point-a-Minute Team Wins Classic, 49 to 0

Menominee, Mich., Nov. 11 (AP) Setting a mark for future generation of Maroon and Purple players to shoot at, Menominee high beat Marinette, Wis., today 49 to 0 in the 35th annual battle between the two teams before a crowd of 10,000 and with Big Ten heads present.

By humbling the team from just across the river in Wisconsin, the Menominee Redmen more than maintained their point-a-minute record for the sason. The 49 points in 48 minutes of play today brought their total for the season to 405 points in 384 minutes of play. Menominee is flashing this record to get a game with a southern Michigan team for the state championship.

The score by quarters was 14 to 0, 35 to 0, 42 to 0, 49 to 0. Jack Kreuz, brother of the Wisconsin and Penn football stars, kicked seven successive points after touchdown. Outstanding star of the game was Francis Tallent, flashy Maroon back, who made four of Menominee's seven touchdown and helped materially with the others. He carried the ball for a total of 280 yards. Whitton, Stewart and Peters made the other touchdowns.

The ten thousand who saw the game, emblematic of the rivalry between Wisconsin and Michigan, came from all over the midwest. Major John Griffith, Big Ten czar, acted as umpire and James C. Masher, Big Ten official as referee.

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 11 (AP)—Jimmy Slattery continued his comeback campaign tonight by knocking out Johnny Haystack of Binghamton in two minutes and 12 seconds with a left hook and a right to the chin. Slattery weighed 169½; Haystack 166½.

Trotter, 15 Years Old, Wins His 703rd Ribbon at National Show

BY ORLO L. ROBERTSON
(Associated Press Sports Driter)

New York, Nov. 11 (AP)—A 15-year-old stallion proudly pranced into the Tan Bark arena at the national horse show here today, and amid thunderous applause made his exit, the possessor of his 703rd championship blue ribbon. The thoroughbred king was St. Meserob, rated as the world's most noted trotting bred roadster champion.

No horse ever has equalled the winning record of this famous son of the equally famous stallion, New York bred brown stallion, Peter the Great.

For ten years S. Meserob has been appearing in every prominent equine show in the country winning championships with precise regularity. Besides his record of 703 championship ribbons he has won three stakes of $2,000, three of $1,500, 45 of $1,000 and 32 of $500.

The great old trotter, however, in his first appearance today led by a halter was defeated in the class calling out trotters with records of 2:10 or better. Heretofore, St. Meserob always has been shown in harness, which probably accounted for his poor showing to Guy Trogan and his stablemate, Signal Flash. First went to the former exhibited by E. R. Harriman of Goshen, N. Y., with second to the latter.

H. Hollen Crowell of Boston, jumpers swept through the fencing fields in the early part of the show, accounted for his fourth blue ribbon in an impressive style with Fairfax, which turned in the outstanding performance of the class for privately owned jumpers. In the jump off for second place Miss Ruth Cown's Own Montreal sent her Red Tape over the obstacles in almost faultless style to defeat Crowell's other entry, Chantry. Fourth went to Peter the Great, owned by Minot B. Howard of Portchester, N. Y.

A touch of Armistice Day was added to the program with the appearance of the military classes on the morning card. Battery C of the 16th Field Artillery sent out Summerall, Berry and Rumbough to bowl over the opposition in the division for the best artillery horse, mare or gelding over five years of age. But when it came to the officers mount class the representatives of Uncle Sam were not so fortunate, for here Captain Thomas Finlay brought out Cuchulain, one of the crack Irish Free State jumpers, to win with second, third and fourth going to the U. S. army.

Seaton Pippin, eight-year-old mare, accounted for the Seaton Hackney farm's eight blue ribbon of the show by taking Francis P. Garvan challenge cup for the Hackney stallion mare or gelding bred in America and 15 hands or over. It was the mare's third consecutive victory for the cup and gave her owners' permanent possession of the trophy.

Famous Officials Seen in Action in Menominee Contest

Menominee, Nov. 11 (Special)—The list of officials handling the Menominee-Marinette high school football game, reads like a page torn from a book of "Who's Who in Football."

James Masker, veteran Big Ten official, who on the previous Saturday bossed the Michigan-Harvard game was the referee here today. Major John Griffith, commissioner of athletics for the entire Big Ten, was the umpire. Fred Gardiner of West Point, one of the best whistle-tootlers in the country was head linesman and another famous official, Major Hackett of West Point, was field judge. All of these men handled big time university games on Saturday.

Toting the line sticks were three "native" officials—Allan Davey of Marinette, Will F. Doyle of Menominee, and Oliver Kuechle of Milwaukee.

Philadelphia, Nov. 11 (AP)—Charley Belanger, light heavyweight champion of Canada, won the decision over Matt Adgie, Philadelphia, in the 10-round semi-final bout at the Arena tonight. Belanger weighed 175 pounds.

"Ill Health Was Dragging Me Down Fast"

"I Had Been Doctoring for Over A Year When I Learned About Dreco."

Mr. August Besuch

"I have the highest praise for Dreco. It relieved me of suffering when I was about ready to give up all hopes of ever getting well again. I was losing weight fast. My appetite had left me. My nerves were very bad and I was no longer able to get any rest at night. Oftimes I would walk the floor at night trying to get some relief from indigestion. Gas used to press up around my heart that made it beat and thump like an old pump.

"Dreco soon scored in my case and soon I was taking on the weight I had lost. My stomach is lots better and I am at last able to get some rest at night. I am rapidly improving now and all this praise goes to the new medicine, Dreco." This statement was given by Mr. August Besuch, 726 West Winnebago St., Appleton, Wisc.
